I live in Stewartstown, New Hampshire, and own a certified organic farm. My farm is not going to be affected by the Northern Pass, however, I am concerned about the possible use of pesticides and herbicides like Roundup being used to keep vegetation down. Also, if the lines get buried the vegetation would need to be kept clear in those areas, and the drift from helicopter spraying and/or spraying on the ground is equally as bad considering the chemicals used. This is not a good thing for NH, there is already a high incidence of cancer in the north country and we don't need any more emf's or chemicals saturating our landscape. I oppose Northern Pass and everything it stands for, foremost is greed and money to be made by people from another country. The propaganda we are receiving in mailings is a joke. You are dangling jobs created to the people that have been out of work since mill and factory closings which is a crock also.
